Shine raises money for deceased Vietnam veteran's grave

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Vietnam veteran John Allen Rich finally received the heroic recognition he deserves over 50 years after his death, thanks to fellow Vietnam veteran and acquaintance, Fred Shine.

Shine was friends with John Allen Rich's sister, Charlotte, in high school, and was an acquaintance with John because of his friendship with his sister.

According to Shine, John Rich married his high school sweetheart, but shortly after their marriage, they separated. Soon after their separation, Rich was drafted into the military service, serving with the U.S. M.C. Field Artillery. John A. Rich was killed in action on Aug. 25, 1966. Rich was the first soldier from Wilmington that was killed serving the country during the Vietnam War.

Because his divorce was not finalized, Rich's estranged wife was listed as his "sole survivor" and next of kin. For unknown reasons, his estranged wife refused to claim his remains, so he was claimed by his parents, who had moved from Wilmington to Mesa, AZ.

Rich's remains were buried in Arizona until the passing of his father.

When Rich's father passed, Rich's remains were exhumed and moved to Wilmington so he could be buried at Wildwood Cemetery with his father. However, there was no Military Marker at his graveside, stating his heroism for serving his country.

Public buildings update

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — In a briefing for the Board of Selectmen on June 24, Public Buildings Superintendent George Hooper explained that summer is not a time of vacation for his department. "As school comes to a close for the summer, that's when we really ramp up and a lot of our things get going," said Hooper.

Hooper explained that the process begins with graduations and band concerts, for which the Public Buildings Department helps set up. Following that, the department begins its summer process for caring for the school buildings. Hooper explained that this process involves removing and washing the furniture in a classroom, washing the walls, and then stripping and waxing the floor. Once the floor is complete, furniture is replaced and the department moves on to the next room.

In addition to general school building cleaning and refurbishment, public buildings staff will coordinate updates for cleaning ventilators, air systems, and lighting fixtures. The heating system, which is out of season, will also be serviced (air conditioning will be serviced in the colder months, when it is not in use). The West Intermediate LED lighting retrofit will also take place this summer. The department also has a long list of responsibilities outside of the school buildings. Staff are responsible

Thirty years before the Wonderland Race Track was built, the site was given its name by the Wonderland Amusement Park. Conceived by a man in the Baking Soda industry who bought the land and planned by a man who had failed to build the biggest park in Coney Island. Wonderland was filled with cutting-edge rides and attractions. Its opening day broke attendance records at Revere Beach, and the park was a major success. Author Stephen R. Wilk has been researching the park for his forthcoming book Backstage at Wonderland, and will talk about the building of the park and its first year of operation, 1906.

News and notes from WCTV

By SHAUN NEVILLE
WCTV Executive Director

WCTV will be live at the Fun on the Fourth celebration for opening night on Wednesday. Tune in from 6 - 7 p.m. (Comcast 9/Verizon 37) for interviews with organizers and a look at this year's setup. Mike Burns and Lisa Kapala will be hosting this year's coverage. The program will replay all weekend long on WCTV.

While Wednesday is our big live show, we have a team of interns out the rest of the week covering Family Day, hospital bed races and of course, the fireworks. Look for those videos next week.

And if you're in the mood for nostalgia, our weekend television schedule is loaded with archive Fun on the Fourth programming. We'll be re-airing videos from 1999 and 2009. We also have recent coverage from 2017 and 2018 on the air. Go to wctv.org/live for a full program schedule.

Thanks to all of those who took part in WCTV's annual community survey. This year, we again received well over 100 responses. This sort of data helps guide our mission and see where we should devote our limited resources.

• 9 out of 10 say WCTV is an important part of the community that shouldn't be lost

• 69 percent said WCTV programming has improved over the past 2-3 years

• 87 percent rate the quality of WCTV programming at either 4 or 5 stars.

We're obviously thrilled by these results. It shows us that the resources we've pumped into programming and community outreach over the past several years hasn't gone unnoticed.

60 percent of respondents also say they've learned about a community group or event through WCTV and 61 percent say WCTV is a place they go to for information about Wilmington news and events. These are important statistics for us as our long-term goal is to be a place where everyone in town goes to be informed. For comparison, two years ago, the survey found just 31 percent of respondents went to WCTV for community information.

One of our goals this year is to work with nearly a dozen Wilmington non-profits or departments on PSAs (public service announcements) to advertise their group or a specific event. Hopefully, you've seen some of those on our air over the past few months. If you're part of a group looking to get out your message, give us a call or send an email. We won't do these for you. But we will work with your group to help spread the word and handle technical hurdles.

• 35 percent say they watch WCTV on television at least once a month.

• 35 percent also say they watch WCTV online at least once a month.

• 77 percent of respondents say they have watched a live program on WCTV over the past year

• 18 percent say they watch a live program weekly

Without television ratings (we don't get them), there is some uncertainty as to how many people are actually watching WCTV. This survey tells us that YES, people still watch us on TV, even as our online audience grows. Taking a deep dive into the numbers shows that when people want to watch a live event, they turn to television more often than their phones, tablets and computers.

Meetings remain the most watched programs on WCTV and that's not a big surprise to us. School events and high school sports are also a popular choice for a Wilmington audience. But the bottom line for us is this: There's usually something on WCTV over the course of the year for you. Whether that's Town Meeting, graduation, 4th of July or the latest episode of Book Stew, we're confident that our variety of programming offers something of interest to every Wilmington resident.

Find more survey results on wctv.org.

WHEN TO GIFT—NOW OR LATER? (THE STEP-UP IN BASIS DILEMMA)

The estate and gift tax exemption was raised to $11,180,000 per person for 2018, and will increase based on inflation each year until 2026 when it will return to the amount before it was increased (approximately $6,000,000), but still be subject to inflation.

A gift during your lifetime has a "carryover basis," but a gift on your death receives a step-up in basis to the fair market value as of your date of death (except for individual retirement accounts).

For example, you bought stock for $100,000 ten years ago and the stock is now worth $300,000. You decide to give the stock to your son. You may give it to your son without paying any gift tax, but when your son sells the stock, he will have to pay income tax on $200,000 gain. Instead of gifting the stock to your son now, you leave it to him in your Will (or revocable Trust) upon your death. The new basis of the stock on your date of death is $310,000 (the value of the stock on your date of death). When your son sells the stock a few years after your death, the stock is valued at $320,000 and your son only pays income tax based on the gain of $10,000.

History:

Ruth Waterman Ferrick, a pioneer in heart surgery

By LARZ F. NEILSON

"You will save a thousand lives," Dr. Dwight Harkens told Ruth Ferrick. "From what we have learned in operating on you, we can now operate on others who have the same trouble."

However, going into the operation, Mrs. Ferrick had been given a one in a thousand chance of survival. She had been born with a congenital heart defect, and had spent more than 40 years with insufficient oxygen. By 1954, the situation was critical.

A native of Wilmington, she was born Ruth Waterman. She was always in a delicate condition, which showed in her blue complexion. There was enough oxygen in her blood to keep her alive, but not enough for any demands on her system. Most infants born with that condition did not survive beyond one year.

Ruth was able to attend school, but she had to be the last pupil in and out of a classroom, lest she be accidentally jostled. It took her 13 years to complete the 12 years of public school.

While her brother and sister engaged in sports, she sat home. Her brother Harold Waterman had lost an arm at age eight. He became a star pitcher in high school and captained three athletic teams. He then played in the minor leagues, and pitched a no-hit game and had a tryout for the Boston Red Sox. (Story in last week's Town Crier.)

Ruth sat at home and drew pictures, eventually becoming a proficient artist, able to give lessons. If she went out at all, it was for church or a trip to a doctor's office. She was repeatedly told that nothing could be done for her condition. An operation would be too risky. Doctors would give her some medicine and tell her not to exert herself.

In 1941, she married Bill Ferrick. With careful planning, she was able to keep house, but they knew there could be no children. During World War II, while Bill served in the Army in Europe, she lived with her parents again, on Adams Street in Wilmington. After Bill's return from the Army, the couple lived with them, only Lois Waterman had become an invalid. After her mother's death in 1948, Ruth and Bill moved to a one-level house in Wakefield.

In 1951, she consulted with Dr. Harken at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston. He thought that she was not terribly limited by her condition, and that surgery would be too risky.

Three years later, though, her condition had worsened. Simultaneously, new techniques in surgery were being devised. In April 1954, she again met with Dr. Harken. He was astounded. She had become totally incapacitated. The ratio of white blood cells to red blood cells was at the level of a dying person.

She entered the hospital, and on May 2, a team headed by Dr. Dexter used a catheter, inserted in her arm, then forced up through an artery, to explore the chambers of her heart. It was an extremely painful process, but the doctors found that a tube was plugged between the two sides of the heart. She was in extremely critical condition, gasping for breath.

Dr. Harken told her that her only chance was surgery, but it was a desperate gamble, with only one chance in a thousand for success. She agreed to go ahead with the surgery.

The surgery on May 6 took four hours, with a whole gallery of surgeons watching. Dr. Harken used a new technique called "Direct Pressure Control."

Her body responded to the surgery with amazing speed. As the nurses wheeled her back to her bed, they noticed the changing color of her skin. What had been blue for many years began to turn pink. For a week and a half, though, she knew nothing of her improvement, until she finally had a chance to look in a mirror. She wanted to see her tongue, which had always been blue. Now it was pink!

As she recovered, she learned of the hopes that Dr. Harken had. He now felt confident that this operation could be done on other patients who had the same condition. He told Ruth that she was the first patient on whom he had ever tried this operation.

On May 29, Ruth Ferrick walked across the street to visit a neighbor, something that was impossible just a month earlier. She underwent a dramatic change, building a life full of activities others take for granted. She could be found striding around Wakefield wearing a button reading, "Mended Hearts Club."

She lived for another 24 years and was in her late 60s when she died on May 30, 1978.

Bruins team signed jersey up for grabs as part of summer reading program

TEWKSBURY — Children participating in the Tewksbury Public Library's summer reading program will have the opportunity to win a Boston Bruins team signed jersey.

To be eligible to win the jersey, children (PreK to entering grade 5) should visit the library's Children's Room this summer and sign up for the Summer Reading Club, which runs through Aug. 9. For every one hour children read, they receive a raffle ticket. Children can then use their raffle tickets to take a chance on nearly 40 prizes, including the Boston Bruins team signed jersey.

In addition to raffles, children will also earn beads to build their "Reading Brag Chain."

The jersey is part of a series of prizes that the Boston Bruins offers as part of its "When You Read, You Score" program. This summer marks the 10th anniversary of the program and the team's partnership with Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners (MBLC), and the Massachusetts Library System to encourage children and teens to read over the summer months.

"Summer reading is fun, but it's also an important part of students' academic success because it helps them avoid the summer slide," said James Loneragan, MBLC Director.

Kids who read just four books over the summer do better on reading comprehension tests in the fall than their peers who read one or no books over the summer. Over 3 million children, teens, and adults have participated in summer reading as part of the "When You Read, You Score" program.

Tuukka Rask, Zdeno Chara, Brad Marchand and other Bruins players also helped libraries develop "Favorite Books of the Boston Bruins" (available on mass.gov/libraries), a recommended reads list that includes librarians' picks for the best hockey books.

"The kids really enjoy picking up a book and seeing that it was recommended by one of the Bruins players. It inspires them to want to read it themselves," noted Tewksbury Children's Librarian Kat Lewin.

The statewide summer library program is made free to all public libraries and residents in the Commonwealth thanks to support from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners, the Massachusetts Library System, and the Boston Bruins.

Lawrence mayor presents proclamation to retiring Lazarus House ED Shaheen

LAWRENCE — Over 300 civic, community, business and religious leaders joined in honoring the retirement of longtime Lazarus House Executive Director Bridget Shaheen with a mass and reception at her alma mater, Merrimack College, on June 13.

Shaheen, over 36 years, led the charge in building Lazarus House from a five-bed emergency shelter to a multi-service agency serving those materially poor and homeless with a food pantry, soup kitchen, transitional housing and job training programs.

Lawrence Mayor Dan Rivera, who honored Shaheen with a Proclamation, said when he needed help with the homeless or the hungry of the city, he would call her. "Thank you for making Lawrence better," he said.

In honor of the foundation Shaheen laid for generations of Lazarus House staff, volunteers and donors to serve and honor guests with dignity and respect, there is a GARDEN OF HOPE brick campaign. This peaceful retreat behind St Nicholas residence, the newest transitional housing program, will be a daily reminder to the guests of Lazarus House that they have an entire community of people who support them, love them and

Comment on North Wilmington train station

Dear editor:
I agree with Mr. Cairra. I have been at that site many times with the gates open and the train dropping passengers off at the station. It seems to me that the engineers simply have to pull up far enough to keep the gate from going down, and free the cars to pass.

Debate comments and a question on Ortiz shooting

By PAUL J. ANDREWS
andrews@massupt.org
Mass. Ass'n. of School Superintendents
Member of Board of Winchester Hospital

What a past week with more candidates on the stage than you can keep track. Also we keep hearing people raising questions on the shooting of David Ortiz, which I really do not understand. These issues occupied many of the stories of the week on the national front.

Debate Comments

The idea of having so many candidates for the nomination of the Democratic Party I guess is a great idea but quite candidly the fact that two nights in prime time made most people more confused than before, except those candidates they favored before the debates began. The reality is that most of the candidates made a fine impression on me but had little or no experience in management of a federal agency. You may say, so when did that become a requisite?

Second, would it not have been nice to have the names of the candidates in front of them or on screen when each candidate spoke? While I really felt the NBC press who had the questions did a great job in the debate, the candidates found the answers that fit their position on the issues and got in a normal extra response of their core positions or "big idea" as promoted in the week before by NBC, as a prelude to the debate.

The candidates did in my estimation a fine job in their response but when the two nights were over, the only one folks talked about was Kamala Harris, who took on former VP Joe Biden. Many of the other candidates from far away lands did a great job but seem merged into a collage of ideas, criticisms, etc. Debates are interesting and I have moderated a few but to me are much more productive when you have a one against one competition. As I am writing this column, I feel that the use of the word "debate" is off track as in reality this was like a visual introduction of the candidates to the citizens of the world.

May the best woman or man win the nomination after some real debates.

What is this Ortiz question?

We have a Red Sox hero David Ortiz shot in the Dominican Republic, flown to the Massachusetts General Hospital and still in treatment with law enforcement announcing that they have apprehended the person who did the shooting and the person ordering the shooting. Ortiz was the subject of mistaken identity according to the law enforcement agency in that country with many other details.

While we have bridges, parks and streets named after the great player, we seem to have many "doubters" who seem to have come up with their own ideas of what occurred and the reason for the shooting, paying little or no attention to the official reports like they do not exist. I guess I do not understand how a person can be a hero to millions and disagree with a fact trail that finds a hero they adored, in some sinister activity.

JUST A NOTE — First, thanks to the many folks who commented to me on the i-phone texting issue in last week's column with many telling me their story as related to the column. Ed Asner was a hit this past week on television and around Boston last week; as I was one of his biggest fans but know his show would have trouble today.

Reacting to the fans of the Morning Pulse extractions, the following are most recent, it's time for colleges to require mandated financial literacy courses; US consumer confidence deteriorates in June, as trade issues are starting to impact consumer sentiment; a Fed letdown on rate cuts could be the stock market's biggest threat now; oil prices climb amid fall in US stockpiles and Middle East worries; Hedge funds boost equity leverage at fastest rate in three years; despite changing economy, American charitable giving rose in 2018; 1st time homebuyers are getting squeezed out by investors; DeSantis says Florida will spend $5.1 million on election security; Amazon's merchants are feeling the pain of a trade war with China; automakers jump on venture capital bandwagon to plus technology gap; google maps list millions of fake businesses and US weekly jobless claims fall more than expected.

Fourth of July safety tips from the Red Cross

MEDFORD — The 4th of July holiday is just around the corner and many of us will take time off to enjoy a long weekend of summer fun. The American Red Cross wants everyone to have a great holiday and offers safety steps people can follow.

FIREWORKS

The safest way to enjoy fireworks is to attend a public firework show put on by professionals. Stay at least 500 feet away from the show. Leave any area immediately where untrained amateurs are using fireworks.

If you are setting fireworks off at home, follow these safety steps:

Never give fireworks to small children, and never throw or point a firework toward people, animals, vehicles, structures or flammable materials.

Always follow the instructions on the packaging.

Keep a supply of water close by as a precaution.

Make sure the person lighting fireworks always wears eye protection.

Light only one firework at a time and never attempt to relight "a dud."

BARBECUE SAFETY

Keep perishable foods in a cooler with plenty of ice or freezer gel packs. Wash your hands before preparing the food. Don't leave food out in the hot sun. If you are going to cook on a grill, follow these steps:

Always supervise a barbecue grill when in use. Don't add charcoal starter fluid when coals have already been ignited.

Never grill indoors — not in your house, camper, tent or any enclosed area.

Make sure everyone, including pets, stays away from the grill.

Keep the grill out in the open and away from the house, the deck, tree branches or anything that could catch fire.

Use the long-handled tools especially made for cooking on the grill to help keep the chef safe.

HEAT SAFETY

Never leave children or pets in your vehicle. The inside temperature of the car can quickly reach 120 degrees.

Stay hydrated, drink plenty of fluids. Avoid drinks with caffeine or alcohol. Wear loose-fitting, lightweight, light-colored clothing. Avoid dark colors as they absorb the sun's rays.

Avoid extreme temperature changes.

Slow down, stay indoors. Avoid strenuous exercise during the hottest part of the day. Postpone outdoor games and activities.

Use a buddy system when working in excessive heat. Take frequent breaks if working outdoors.

Check on family, friends and neighbors who do not have air conditioning, who spend much of their time alone or who are more likely to be affected by the heat.

WATER SAFETY

Be "Water smart." Children and adults should learn to swim so, at a minimum, they achieve the skills of water competency: be able to enter the water, get a breath, stay afloat, find an exit, swim a distance and then get out of the water safely.

Prevent unsupervised access to water. A person who is drowning has a better chance of survival if these steps are followed:

Recognize the signs of someone trouble and shout for help;

Rescue and remove the person from water without putting yourself in danger;

Call 9-1-1;

Begin rescue breathing and CPR; and Use an AED, if available, and transfer care to advanced life support.

Here are a few more steps people can take as we approach the holiday:

Go to www.redcross.org/watersafety for water safety courses, tips and resources.

Download the free Red Cross First Aid App for instant access to information on how to treat bleeding, burns, insect bites and stings, and more.

Give blood. The number of people donating blood often drops during the summer when people are on vacation and schools are closed. Visit www.redcrossblood.org or download the Red Cross Blood App for more information or to schedule your donation.

OBITUARY

Bertha G. (Gouveia) Deprez

Girl Scout Leader for many years

Bertha G. (Gouveia) Deprez, age 81, of Wilmington, passed away suddenly on June 26, 2019, at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington.

Bertha was born and raised in New Bedford, MA; she was the cherished only child of Antonio and Mary Gouveia. Bertha attended New Bedford Schools and was a graduate of New Bedford High School.

In 1960, Bertha married the "love of her life" Albert Deprez; the couple lived in Haverhill for several years before moving to Wilmington in 1972 where they made their home and raised two wonderful children.

Bertha was a very devoted and loving wife, mother and grandmother; she was an excellent homemaker and always had an "open door policy" where her children and their friends could hang out. Bertha enjoyed spending time with her family; she attended countless dance recitals and school events with her children and grandchildren throughout the years.

She enjoyed attending classic car shows with her son Steve and his 1970 Challenger. Bertha was an avid gardener and worked hard to keep all her flower beds in constant bloom during spring and summer. Bertha, family and friends enjoyed many hours of fun and relaxation at her pool.

Bertha looked forward to family vacations and holidays; everyone always had a great time and made many memories to share for years to come.

Bertha was very active in her community; she was a Girl Scout Leader for many years, the past President of the Wilmington Garden Club and member of the Friends of the Wilmington Public Library where she volunteered at the Book Store. Bertha was very active in the A.I.M. (Access is Mandatory) Group; volunteering countless hours every week to help others in need. She also enjoyed the many activities and trips she participated in at the Wilmington Senior Center and was part of the Quilting group as well as the Fun Singers.

Bertha will be fondly remembered as a lovely lady; she unselfishly gave of her time and talents and was always out and about doing for others. Bertha's personality was warm and welcoming; she had a great smile and made others feel like family when they were around her. Bertha loved her family and friends unconditionally and looked forward to getting together with them as often as she could. She will forever be missed by all who knew and loved her.

Bertha was the beloved wife of the late Albert J. Deprez, devoted mother of Steven Deprez of North Billerica and Christine Hagberg and her husband Brian of Hopkinton. Loving Grandma of Isabel, Amelia and Paul, cherished daughter of the late Antonio and Mary C. (Nunes) Gouveia. Bertha is also survived by many dear friends.

Wiretap investigation leads to arrest of 12 including Tewksbury resident LOWELL — Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan and Lowell Police Superintendent Kelly Richardson announced that 12 people were arrested following months long wiretap investigation into a drug trafficking conspiracy involving kilogram quantities of cocaine or distribution in Lowell and other areas in Middlesex County. In total, over two kilograms of suspected cocaine, two hand guns and over $300,000 in cash was taken off the street as a result of the investigation led by the Middlesex District Attorney's Office, Massachusetts State Police assigned to this office and Lowell Police.

"Physically taking product out of our communities is an essential component of our wide-ranging efforts to address the pervasive problem of illicit drug use that only law enforcement can accomplish. This complicated large-scale investigation involved identifying members of a trafficking conspiracy at every level of the supply chain from bulk wholesalers to street-level dealers. During the course of the investigation evidence was also gathered with respect to other dangerous conduct allegedly being engaged in by these individuals. Today's arrests demonstrate the value of collaborative work involving multiple law enforcement agencies," said District Attorney Ryan.

"I would like to publicly commend District Attorney Marian Ryan and Massachusetts State Police for their collaborative efforts. Our long partnership has worked once again in dealing with serious crime in the City of Lowell. In August 2018 when appointed Superintendent I made a public commitment that the gun violence in Lowell would not go unanswered. We have learned that much of the gun violence in our cities stem from the illegal drug trade. Today's arrest and seizure of narcotics, money and weapons should have a positive effect on our community. I appreciate the efforts of all," said Superintendent Richardson.

In May of 2019 investigators began to conduct wiretaps in the City of Lowell in connection with an investigation into a suspected drug trafficking conspiracy that had been underway since 2016. In 2016, the Massachusetts State Police Gang Unit arrested Joseph Alicea, a.k.a. "Duda" for trafficking heroin and he was subsequently sentenced to state prison. During his time in prison Alicea allegedly continued to run his drug trafficking business. Upon his release law enforcement resumed their investigation in this alleged drug distribution activity and subsequently initiated a wiretap in May.

Over the course of the investigation police learned that Alicea was allegedly actively trafficking kilogram quantities of cocaine including, purchasing cocaine from suppliers, and cutting, cooking and packaging it for resale to customers either by personally delivering or delegating the delivery to others. He was allegedly operating this conspiracy with his significant other, Marisol Ortiz who allegedly assisted Alicea in pricing and packaging the drugs.

The investigation also revealed that Alicea was conspiring with over a dozen other individuals to traffic in sizeable quantities of cocaine. These individuals participated in the conspiracy by assisting Alicea in packaging and distributing the controlled substances. These individuals would also distribute cocaine in transactions brokered by Alicea, and to their own customers.

The investigation into this conspiracy also indicates that some members were connected to other acts of violence utilizing firearms in the community. The investigation into this activity is ongoing and additional charges could be issued.

On June 27, 2019, law enforcement officers from the Massachusetts State Police and the Lowell Police Department executed 12 search warrants at locations in Lowell, Lawrence, Dracut and Tewksbury believed to be used by the co-conspirators in the furtherance of their narcotics-related activities.

Over the course of the investigation law enforcement discovered and seized over two kilograms of suspected cocaine, two handguns, over $300,000, several pounds of marijuana, MDMA, Oxycodone, Percocet, Suboxone, cutting agents and a money counter.

As a result of the execution of the search warrant, the following individuals were arrested and charged:

- Joseph Alicea, 30, of Lowell - trafficking in cocaine over 200 grams, conspiracy to traffic
- Marisol Ortiz, 37, of Lowell - trafficking in cocaine over 200 grams, conspiracy to traffic
- Javier Ortiz, 25, of Lowell - trafficking over 200 grams of cocaine and conspiracy to traffic cocaine
- Richard Gonzalez, 26, of Lowell - conspiracy to traffic cocaine and possession with intent to distribute a class D substance
- ALBERTO MARBERT, 27, of Tewksbury - conspiracy to traffic cocaine
- German Figueroa, 23, of Lowell - conspiracy to traffic cocaine
- Christian Amador, 28, of Lowell - conspiracy to traffic cocaine, tampering with evidence and possession with intent to distribute cocaine

- Angel Chinae, 35, of Lowell - conspiracy to traffic cocaine
- Angel Chinae, 20, of Lowell - possession of a firearm without a license, possession of ammunition
- Adam Morales, 24, of Lowell - conspiracy to traffic cocaine

Fire up that grill this Fourth of July

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

The Fourth of July is upon us, a day of united celebration of our great country's birth. The day when all Americans wave their American flags with pride, watch a grand display of fireworks, and celebrate with a backyard cookout.

That's right, it's grilling season, and with grilling season comes that age old debate, charcoal or gas!

Many diehard BBQ fans insist the only way to grill is with charcoal, but there are pros and cons to cooking on the traditional charcoal grills.

To achieve the desired sear on meats when grilling, temperatures must reach at least 600 degrees Fahrenheit. A grill filled with red hot charcoal will have no problem reaching temperatures up to 700 degrees. Not all gas grills have such a high temperature range.

Because coals can reach such a high temperature, charcoal also creates that wonderful smokey flavor that everyone craves.

When drippings from meat fall onto hot coals, the drippings turn into a flavor packed steam and smoke that is absorbed by the food, resulting in that unique, charcoal grilled taste.

Charcoal grills are lightweight and portable, making it easy to bring for camping or tailgating. Although small travel size gas grills are available, in general they are too large and heavy to bring to a park or beach.

Financially, charcoal grills are much more budget friendly to purchase than gas grills. The starting price for a charcoal grill is about $25, and the gas grill starts at upwards of $100.

However, the operating cost of a charcoal grill can be higher than a gas grill. A 20lb bag of charcoal will last for about three grilling sessions, but one propane tank will last for 25 to 30 grilling

When it comes to convenience, nothing beats the gas grill. It is almost like having your indoor kitchen outside. It is easy to grill a variety of foods with a quick touch of a button, and temperature controls allow for a quick preheat, great for last minute dinner preparation. Some gas grills even have a side burner that can be used for boiling water for pasta or rice.

Preparation time for a charcoal grill is not as quick and easy. You must allow yourself time to fill the grill with coals, light them, and then wait 15 to 20 minutes to reach proper cooking temperature.

Clean up is also more cumbersome with charcoal, as you must dispose of cooled coals and ashes, and remove the grill for proper cleaning.

Safety is always a priority when grilling with any type of grill, but with gas you must always be sure your propane tank is properly installed and free of any leaks. Keep all grills at least 10 feet away from the house or deck.

Charcoal or gas really comes down to personal preference. Either way, knowing how to properly grill your favorite foods is the real trick.

When grilling the perfect steak, remove steak from refrigerator and season with salt and pepper 20 to 30 minutes before grilling. This will allow the salt to start to dissolve from the moisture it is drawing from the meat. This, in turn, will create a delicious crust that will seal in remaining moisture. Also, removing from refrigeration early will cut down on cooking time, and result in juicier meat. Always sear meat on high heat, then lower heat for remainder of cook time for optimum flavor. Remember, meat will continue to cook for 5 minutes after cooking. This is called "resting." Interior temperature for steak should be 125 degrees Fahrenheit, so allowing for resting time, you should remove steak from heat when interior temps reach 120 degrees.

When grilling chicken, nothing is worse than dry, overcooked chicken, except chicken that is still raw in the middle! First, choose the right cut of chicken, keeping in mind that boneless cooks much faster than bone-in.

To add flavor, use a marinade, rub or brine on chicken 8 to 24 hours before cooking. This will allow you to kick back and relax while you grill without constant basting.

Make sure the grill is clean, greased and preheated. Grill chicken on medium or indirect heat for most of the cooking time to avoid overcooking. Always cover the grill when cooking chicken to hold in heat. (If your grill doesn't have a cover, use an upside down foil pan as a cover.) Use a meat thermometer to check interior temperature. For properly cooked chicken, interior temperature should read 165 degrees Fahrenheit.

You can't have the all American cookout without burgers and hotdogs!

out and sticking to the grill. If your coat them with too much oil, the excess will drip and cause flame flare ups, resulting in uneven cooking and a greasy flavor.

Some vegetables only take a minute or two, like onions or corn.

Denser vegetables, like potatoes, take longer to cook. To prevent burning, sear dense vegetables on high for a minute, then remove them to the outer edge of the grill until they are finished cooking.

To grill small, sliced vegetables, use skewers, a grill basket, or wrap in heavy duty foil.

Heavy duty foil is great for corn on the cob. Add butter, crushed garlic, chives and salt to corn cobs, and wrap them in foil. Place wrapped corn cobs on the grill for 15 minutes for juicy corn that is full of flavor!

Always avoid cross contamination when grilling vegetables with raw meats. Thoroughly wash everything that has come in contact with raw meat before reusing it. Never place cooked meat from the grill on the same plate you carried the raw meat on when you brought it to the grill, and use separate utensils for flipping meat and vegetables.

Whether you choose old school charcoal, or enjoy the convenience of gas, it's time to spark up that grill. Think of the back yard as your summer kitchen, and with many foods that are easy to cook on the grill, dinner time can be a cookout all summer long!

TEWKSBURY — The Tewksbury Historical Society Board of Directors announces Executive Committee appointments: Douglas Sears, Esq, President; Nancy Reed, Vice President and Treasurer; Linda Voutour as Assistant Treasurer; and, Bill Wyatt, Secretary. David Marcus, former Treasurer, has resigned from the Board.

Tewksbury residents, Patricia Stratis and Linda Voutour, have joined the board. Both women also serve on the Tewksbury Historical Commission. Patricia Stratis serves on the town's Cultural Council. Linda Voutour serves on the Tewksbury Local Historic District Study Committee. Both have a history of commitment to the betterment of the town and the philosophies of the Society.

Tewksbury Historical Society seeks new members

During the year ahead, they seek new members who are curious about Tewksbury's history. Board members want to be personally supportive to those of this town who seek to learn more about their ancestries and who may also inform the Society about things that happened in the past that are of historic relevance about our town. Please contact Doug Sears directly if you have an interest: (978)

376-7390.

They are moving ahead with the digitization of their collections. They hope to bring the public easy access to their archives. Archivist Andy Grilz is organizing the collections so that in the fall interns from Harvard University will refine the archiving process. They encourage townspeople who are downsizing to offer to the Society writings, and other smaller items, they find that help them tell the history of the town.

In the fall, the board shall recognize Rita O'Brien-Dee and Tony Coviello with the Samuel Hunt Award for their service and dedication to the endeavors of the Society. Doug Sears will present the Boston Post Cane to the oldest citizen who is a registered voter in Tewksbury, a tradition that began in 1909. Director Brian Cortez shall bring to life Tewksbury's Dr. Kittredge a Revolutionary War presentation.

In April, Brian shall assemble reenactors to gather in the town center to march the Revolutionary War Line of March marked with granite posts funded by donations to the Society. This reenactment is a spectacular visual experience for children and adults. Viewing Tewksbury Militia's march to Concord on April 19, 1775 is a fitting reminder of our part in this important historic moment in this country.

The Tewksbury Historical Society is an IRC 501 (c) (3), not-for-profit corporation, founded in 1993. Board members serve as volunteers. All donations and membership dues go toward maintaining the Society's collections, archive materials, storage costs, postage and stationery. If you want to become a member, donate or merely to learn more about the Tewksbury Historical Society, please see the contacts listed below. They are always looking to expand our membership to make all of these initiatives, and more, a reality.

for the bathhouse at silver lake, buildings-related issues for the Fourth of July festivities, and the structures at Yentile park, including the concession stand. The department will also coordinate with the Sheriff's department for inmate painting assistance at the food pantry, Harnden Tavern, and little West Schoolhouse.

Hooper explained that the summer schedule has a 10-week window for completion, "so it keeps us relatively busy."

"It's an unbelievable amount of work that you guys do in a 10- or 12-week period," said Selectman Kevin Cairra.

Cairra also asked if there were any scheduled projects or maintenance taking place at the Senior Center. Hooper responded that public buildings had recently coordinated light fixture replacement and the installation of a new refrigerator-freezer, and that his department would be working with Terry Marciello on other kitchen upgrades.

experienced. Shine realized the entire country, including his hometown of Wilmington, had a negative attitude toward returning Vietnam veterans.

Shine had several friends, including John Rich, that never returned from their tour of duty in Vietnam, and was shocked by the response he received when he asked about a Memorial for his fellow Vietnam veterans.

"Shine was told by a former town selectmen, who was in office at the time of Shine's return from Vietnam, that 'Wilmington does not need any monuments to Vietnam. We need to forget that time in history, and let it go away.'"

"Shine could not 'let it go away,' and was determined to right this wrong in the country's history. Shine raised money himself, and arranged for beautiful Military Monuments to be placed on four of the five Vietnam War soldiers buried in Wilmington.

But, Shine was faced with many roadblocks trying to get a Military Marker for the fifth soldier, John A. Rich. For years, Shine tried to solve the problem of obtaining Rich's "DD24" (Military Discharge Papers). But they could only be obtained by Rich's estranged wife, who was unwilling to cooperate with Shine.

Without Rich's discharge papers, Shine was unable to cut through the government red tape in order to get a Military Marker for Rich's grave site.

Year after year, Shine was pained to see Rich's grave site overlooked on Memorial Day and Veterans Day. When flags and flowers would be distributed to other Veteran's monuments, Rich's grave site was missed because his was an unmarked grave.

After years of frustration trying to obtain Rich's Military Marker through proper channels, Shine took matters into his own hands.

Using money he won from participating in a golf tournament last year, Shine bought a bronze plaque for Rich's grave site.

Shine said, "I set that money aside, fully intending to do something good," adding, "I have always considered myself very lucky, for if the cards were dealt differently, I could very easily have been in one of those graves."

The bronze plaque arrived last week, and was installed in the Field Of Crosses, by the Wildwood Cemetery, the very next day.

Shine continues to keep the memories alive of all of the lost Vietnam War veterans by speaking on their behalfs at local schools. Shine has visited the Wilmington High School for the past 11 years, and the Shawsheen Tech for the last four years, ensuring students know the sacrifices these young soldiers made for their country.

Gillis, Vanderbilt, capture College World Series Championship Title

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Mason Hickman and Jake Eder combined for 14 strikeouts, Vanderbilt knocked out Michigan ace Karl Kauffmann in the fourth inning, and the Commodores won the College World Series with an 8-2 victory in Game 3 of the finals Wednesday night.

Vandy (59-12) won its second title in its four CWS appearances, all since 2011. The other one came in 2014.

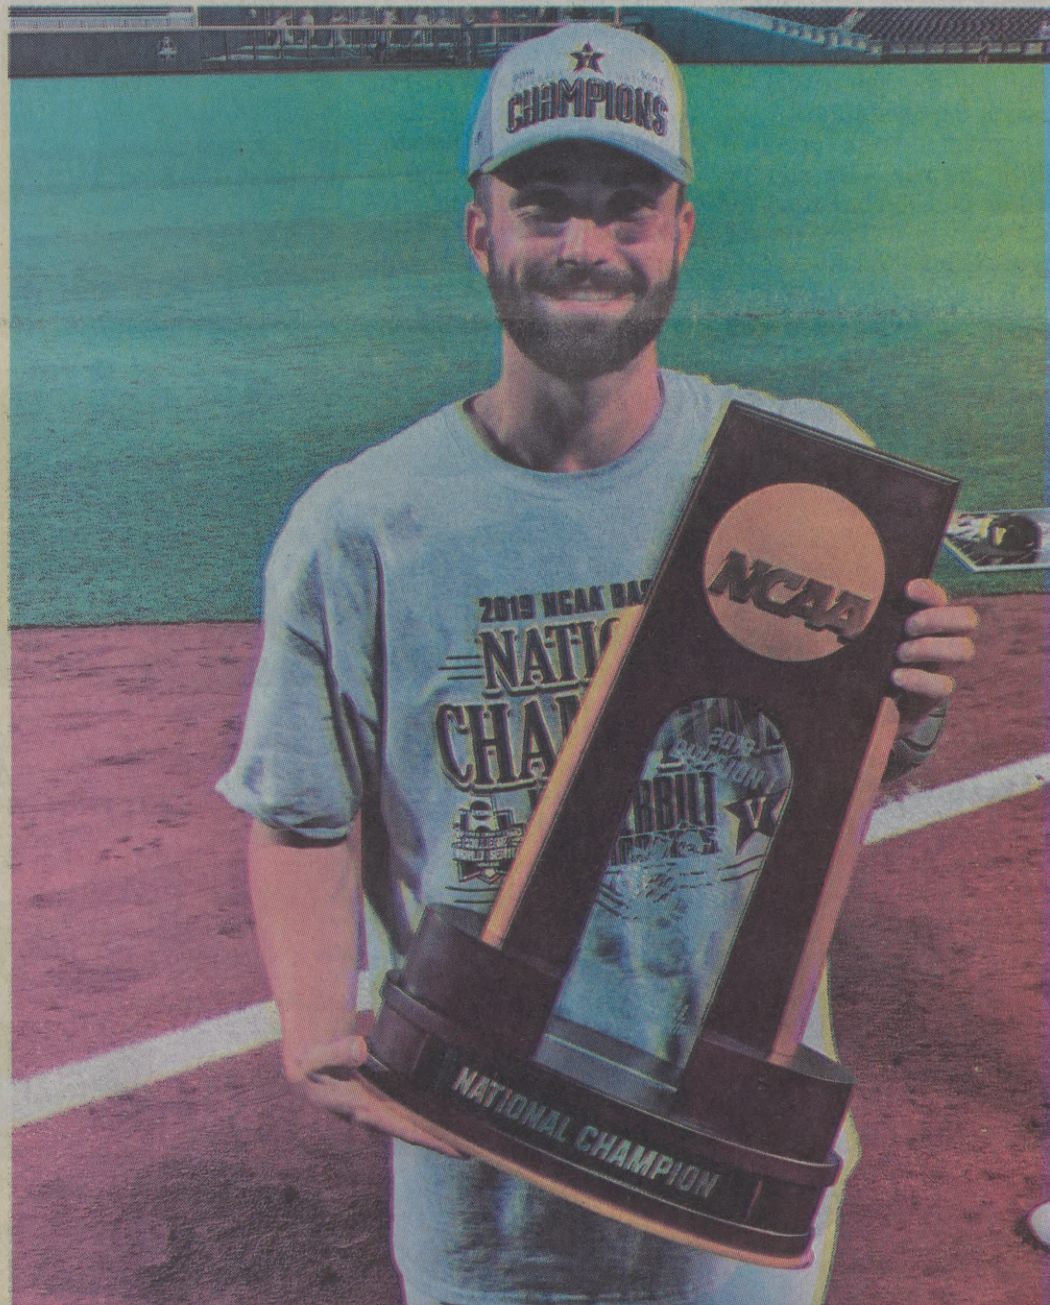

Hickman struck out 10 in six innings and limited the Wolverines (50-22) to one hit after he gave up three in a row to start the game.

Kauffmann, making his third start in the CWS, struggled with his control, and Vandy broke open the game with three runs in the third inning and two in the fourth.

When Ako Thomas flew out to center to end the game, the Vandy dugout and bullpen emptied and catcher Philip Clarke sprinted to the mound to embrace Eder.

The Commodores were a model of consistency from start to finish this season. They swept the Southeastern Conference regular-season and tournament titles, set the league record for wins, tied the record with 13 draft picks and lost back-to-back games just twice.

They're the sixth national champion from the SEC since 2009 and 12th overall, second only to the 18 won by the Pac-12 and its previous iterations. At No. 2, Vandy became the highest national seed to win it all since Miami in 2001.

The loss ended a surprising postseason run for Michigan, which went from being one of the last four teams picked for the 64-team NCAA Tournament to becoming the first Big Ten team to play in the finals since Ohio State in 1966.

Hickman gave up three straight singles to start the game, leading to Michigan's first run. He retired nine of the next 10, striking out six, and got out of trouble when the Wolverines loaded the bases in the fourth. He retired the last six he faced before turning the game over to Eder.

Hickman fanned nine or more in five of his final six starts and allowed one or fewer runs in nine of his last 13.

Though the Commodores brought to Omaha an offense ranked in the top five nationally in the major categories, it was pitching that carried them for most of their stay.

Vandy had eight runs on nine hits Wednesday, but its .221 average in six CWS games was the lowest for a national champion in the aluminum bat era that started in 1974.

Vandy got hits when it needed them in Game 3. Pat DeMarco sent Kauffmann's hanging slider 407 feet into the left-field bleachers — his seventh homer of the season and 100th for the Commodores — to tie it at 1 in the second.

The Commodores scored three runs with two outs in the third. Two walks and a single loaded the bases, and Kauffmann walked DeMarco to force in the go-ahead run. Stephen Scott singled up the middle for two more.

Kauffmann tied a career high with five walks, four coming in a stretch in which six of seven Vandy batters reached base. Jeff Criswell relieved after Kauffman walked Ty Duval leading off the fourth, and JJ Bleday's single and Ethan Paul's sacrifice fly stretched the lead to 6-1.

Vandy pitchers combined for a 2.50 ERA over six CWS games. Hickman allowed one earned run and struck out 13 in 12 innings. Kumar Rocker, who threw the no-hitter in super regionals that already is part of college baseball lore, gave up two earned runs and fanned 17 in 12 1/3 innings. Closer Tyler Brown threw 7 2/3 shutout innings and recorded three saves. Rocker was selected the CWS most outstanding player.

Wilmington resident Jackson Gillis is a member of the Vanderbilt team. The Town Crier will have more about Gillis, his season, the National Title and decision between returning to VU or playing professional baseball.

Tewksbury Youth Baseball All-Star teams stay alive

By JOSH CARDEO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

The 9U District All Star Team advanced to the State Tournament over the weekend, with a hard fought 6-0 win over Westford, improving their record to 4-0 to this point.

With an all around great performance from the entire team, Tewksbury continues to make a household name for themselves in the Cal Ripken Tournament.

Tewksbury got off to a fast start when Will Harrison, the lead off man, got on base and came around to score the games first run.

Some other notable hits throughout the game included Nick Colameta. He just barely missed the team's first home run in the tournament with a double of the left centerfield fence, which scored two runs.

Assistant coach Shawn Anderson said that they bottom of the lineup produced some big runs late in the game.

Brennan Davis drove in two big runs to help cushion the lead. "The bats were hot pretty much the entire game," said Anderson.

Davis also made a big catch at the left field wall to help prevent Westford from scoring the two runs that were on base at the time.

Defense was also a big part of the win as well as a calling card for Tewksbury in this tournament, including flawless defense throughout the entire game.

Key hits from Brady Harris, Kyle MacKeen, Michael Barletta, Shayne Welch, and Brady Babbitt put the game away for good.

In addition to his bat, Kyle MacKeen pitched a stellar performance, to the tune of letting up no runs and only allowing a couple hits.

Anderson continues to be impressed at how much of a "team" element is part of this group's success, which could be dangerous for the other teams remaining.

"[They] look primed and ready to make a big run in the State Tournament in Winchester beginning next weekend," said Anderson.

A date and time still has to be determined for Tewksbury's next game, but one thing is for certain, they will be carrying the momentum on to the next round.

The Tewksbury 9U District All Star Team included Beckett Anderson, Nico Auriti, Brady Babbitt, Michael Barletta, Nicholas Colameta, Justin Harrington, Brennan Davis, Brady Harris, Will Harrison, Kyle MacKeen, Andrew Polleys, and Shayne Welch.

11U TEAM ADVANCES

Tewksbury's 11U District All Star team continues to be a resilient bunch, as they scored an impressive 5-1 victory over Shedd Park on Friday.

They now will play in the State Tournament at, ironically enough, Shedd Park.

Tewksbury came out firing on all cylinders in the first inning. Philip Lombardi lined a based hit into the outfield, driving in the game's first run.

They went on to put up three runs in the second inning to take a 3-0. Key hits from Nick Burgess and Lombardi all moved runners across the plate with RBIs in that inning, putting the game out of reach for Shedd Park.

Lombardi was credited with the win. He allowed seven hits and one run over six innings, walking no one and striking out five.

Colin Durkin went 2 for 4 at the plate, being the team leader in hits for the day. Tewksbury played outstanding defense with no errors in the field.

Tewksbury will open up State Tournament play on Saturday, July 6th. They will play both Weymouth and Chelmsford.

The Tewksbury 11U District All Star team includes Cam Kingston, Cam Guender, Ben Barrasso, Cohilton Carmody, Nick Burgess, Jason Lavoie, Jackson Feudo, Colin Durkin, Phil Lombardi, Zach Russo, Cam Duval, Nick Dusisto.

The team is coached by Steve Powers, and his assistants are Anthony Burgess, Joe Lombardi, and Michelle Feudo.

Wilmington Northeast Baseball team jumps back into the win column

By DAN ZIMMERMAN
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON -- On the heels of a two-game lapse, the Northeast Wilmington baseball team returned to the win column with a decisive 11-2 pounding of Woburn on Friday evening.

The Wilmington bats came alive, much like they had earlier when the team averaged more than ten runs in each of the first three games. In the matchup with Woburn, Wilmington scored runs in the third, fourth, and fifth innings to climb to a 6-0 lead and then in the sixth, really roughed up the visitors, adding 5 more to salt it away and improve to 4-2.

Woburn, meanwhile, has struggled through an 0-3 start, losing all three of their games thus far by wide margins. In years past, Woburn had proven a worthy adversary but this summer, their player numbers are down. Arriving at Scanlon Field to face Wilmington, for instance, Woburn could only field nine, narrowly side-stepping a forfeit. And midway through the contest, they lost the services of third baseman Nathan Govostes, who took a ball off his face that sent him to the ER. Woburn was forced to play the remainder of the game with just a pair of outfielders.

"It's always tough to play shorthanded and to lose a player like that in the middle of the game just made it worse for them," said

Wilmington coach Mark Gallucci. "But we had a strong game all around and it was great to see our bats going again. For the most part, everyone was getting the bat on the ball today."

Following last Sunday's error-filled debacle in North Reading, marking the first defeat of the summer, Wilmington traveled to Dracut and as Gallucci explained, played well enough to win but fell just short at the tail end of the game.

"We were tight in the first few innings," he said. "We suffered a bad inning midway, gave up five runs, so we were down 7-2. We had an impressive comeback to get to within just one run at 7-6 but then Dracut put a couple more across. I was happy to see our kids never gave up. Their mindset was positive throughout."

Facing Woburn, Wilmington starter Jimmy McCarron turned in a sterling performance. He set the tone at the outset, fanning lead-off batter Jared Titcomb. McCarron gave up a walk to Carter Walsh, got his pitching counterpart John Surrette to fly out, and soon departed the inning unscathed when Walsh was caught stealing on a precision 3-to-4 putout, from Vinny Scalfani to Drew Gallucci.

Through five innings, McCarron allowed just a pair of hits. By the sixth, he tired under withering ninety-degree heat and faltered, yielding five hits and a pair of runs. By that point in the game, however, Wilmington held a commanding 6-run lead and soon offset the brief Woburn outburst.

"We had a very strong pitching performance out of Jimmy McCarron today," said Gallucci. "He went six innings. We're definitely a well-balanced club. We're hitting, we have good pitching, and except for a couple of hiccups today, the defense has been pretty solid."

Wilmington's Garrett Moretto led off the third frame and was safe on a dropped fly ball. Marcello Misuraca caught up with a Surrette fastball, advancing Moretto who then tagged his way to third on a fly ball out. With two out and runners at the corners, Drew Gallucci flared a single, driving in Moretto for the go-ahead run. Brendon George followed, slapping one along the third base line that rang up Misuraca.

Joe Hartzell drove in McCarron in the fourth and in the fifth, Drew Gallucci, George, and McCarron each added RBI-hits to make it an insurmountable 6-0 advantage.

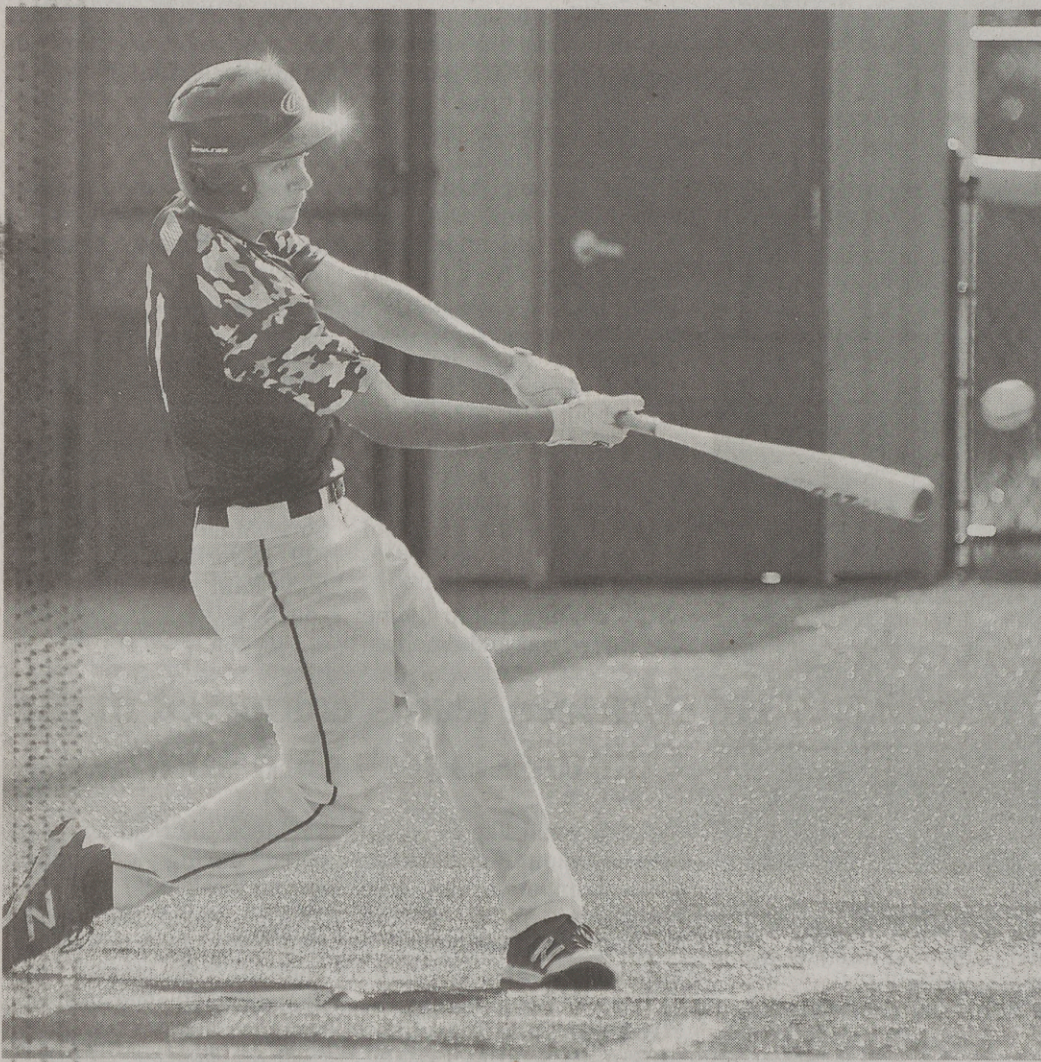

Woburn and Surrette could take some solace in the fact that their defense, coupled with his pitching, was good enough to minimize the damage. Between the fourth and fifth frames, Wilmington left five men stranded.

After third baseman Govostes exited the facility nursing a severely swollen eye, the wheels came off Woburn's game. In the bottom of the sixth, Wilmington added five runs on five hits. With Surrette exhausted on the mound and no viable relief in sight, the Wilmington hitters feasted, dropping what would normally be routine fly balls into the huge gaps in the decimated outfield.

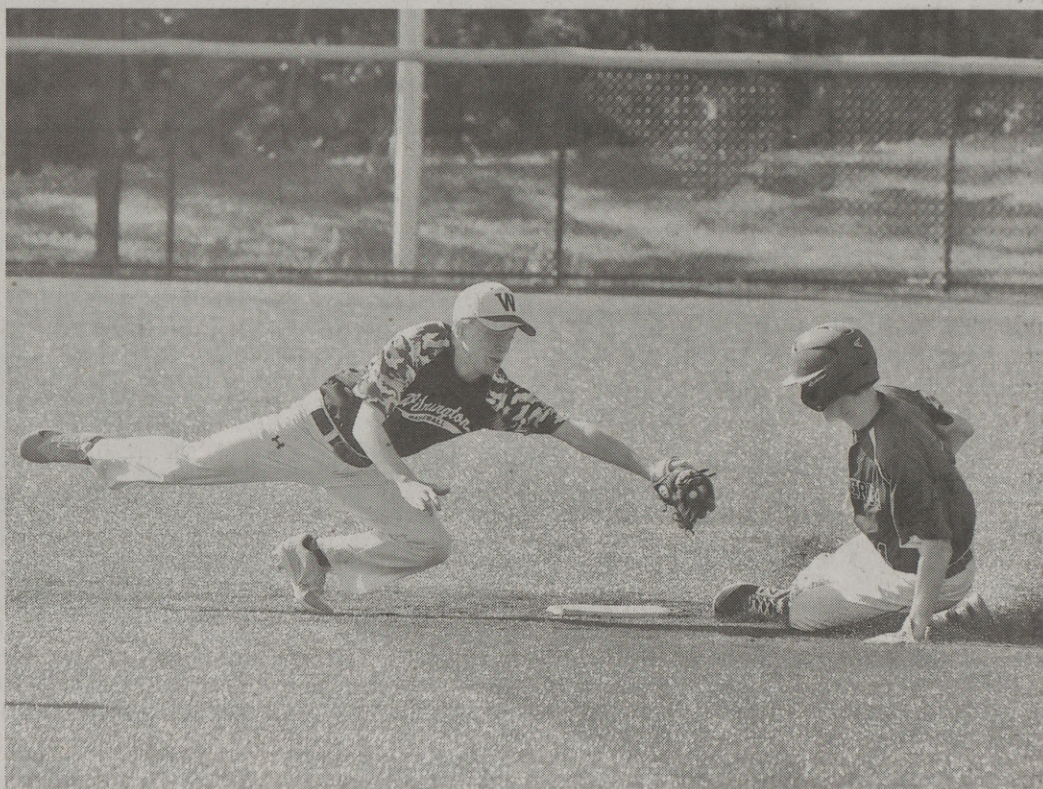

Derek Gallucci relieved McCarron for the seventh and final inning and quickly retired the side.

"We have a young team here," said coach Gallucci. "None of the outgoing high school seniors are playing for us. We do have a few juniors but we're competing with a lot of sophomore and freshman players. But they're playing hard and so far, we've only had one game where we were really out of it. So far, so good."

Sixth Grade Girls take home Commissioner's Cup

At the start of the spring season the Wilmington Girls Sixth Grade A youth travel soccer team set a goal for themselves to finish in the top four of the standings and qualify for the Middlesex D1 playoffs.

At the midpoint of the spring season the girls found themselves in seventh place out of ten teams. They asked if they could still make the playoffs and the coaches told the girls they would have to go on a run and win at least three of their last four games.

The girls banded together, practiced hard, scrimmaged any girls and boys teams they could to better prepare and did what the coaches asked of them each game.

The girls won three of their last four games to earn the final spot in the D1 playoff bracket. Their first opponent in the semi final was No. 1 seed and undefeated Melrose who the girls had narrowly lost to 2-1 earlier in the spring.

The girls were focused, started aggressive and jumped out to a 1-0 lead and defeated Melrose by a final score of 3-1. This set up a championship game with Billerica, who the girls had lost to 1-0 in their final regular season game.

The championship game was a physical and emotional battle up and down the field in front of all of their family and friends. In the end, the girls were able to avenge their prior loss and defeat Billerica 1-0 to win the Middlesex D1 Championship.

The win qualified the girls to represent Middlesex in the Massachusetts Tournament of Champions (MTOC) to determine the sixth grade D1 champion of the state.

At MTOC, the girls beat Lynnfield 2-1, lost to Grafton 0-2 and beat Sandwich 5-1 but lost on a tie breaker, to move onto the semi finals.

Overall the girls had a tremendous season, playing in the top division in Middlesex, winning the D1 championship and representing Middlesex at MTOC.

The Wilmington Sixth Grade Champion team includes Emma Alworth, Gracie Berrier, Kiley Bloom, Eva Boudreau, Jill Collins, Arianna Cook, Alle Delgenio, Skylar Driscoll, Addy Hunt, Kimmy Kane, Alex Malley, Callie McCauley, Kiersten Moore and Vivien Savoie.

The team is coached by Chris Malley (head coach), Bill Alworth (asst. coach) and Paul Driscoll (asst. coach).

Wilmington 11 year old Baseball team defeated by Wakefield Americans

WILMINGTON - It has been a productive week, if not all that successful, for the Wilmington 10-11 All-Stars in the District 13 Little League Baseball Tourney.

Despite good pitching and sound defense, the Wildcats have lost the first three games of the round-robin event, including Saturday's 8-2 loss to Wakefield American at Rotary Park.

Earlier in the week, Wilmington was shutout by Woburn, 2-0, and then edged by Stoneham, 8-7.

"Today was a tough one," said Wilmington manager Henry Belding, after the team was officially eliminated from the playoffs with the loss to Wakefield. "We played solid defensively - we did not make an error. The pitching was fantastic, but I can't talk about the offense because we did not score enough runs."

A lack of production at the plate was indeed the problem on Saturday as American pitchers Andrew Murray and Ethan Falkner held the Wildcats to one hit, albeit a productive one.

Wakefield took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Cole Reeves scored on a bases-loaded walk to Will Judice. Wilmington starter Jonathan Stokes came back to strike out the next batter to retire the side.

Jake Banda led off the Wildcats' second with a walk. He stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Nolan Richards also walked, and stole second, paving the way for a two-run double to deep left by Luke Kitinov.

Now sporting a 2-1 lead, Wilmington tried to add on as Ronnie Jordan walked, and both runners moved up to second and third, with still only one out.

But American starter Andrew Martin got the the next two batters without the ball leaving the infield.

That was about it for the Wildcat offense for the day. Richards and Jordan walked in the fourth, but were left stranded, and Stokes reached on an error in the fifth.

Wilmington did make good contact on several occasions, including shortstop Erin McCarthy, who tagged the ball three times but right at people, leaving her with nothing to show for it.

Wakefield went ahead to stay with three runs in the bottom of the third. Reeves led off with a double and went to third on a wild pitch. Will Stanley walked and stole second. Reeves scored on a Martin single and Stanley scored on a wild pitch to put the Americans back in front, 3-2. There were still no outs and Martin scored after a couple infield grounders.

Wilmington 12 year-old team edged out by Woburn

By MARK NADEAU

WILMINGTON - The first weekend of the District 13 Little League Baseball 12s tournament had teams dodging raindrops. Unfortunately for Wilmington, Sunday's scattered showers included a couple thunderstorms that made an impact on Stoneham's McCarthy Field, postponing the Wildcats' game with the Spartans until the next day.

Wilmington did open up the tournament, Friday night, at Weafer Park. The Wildcats fell behind early, stayed in hot pursuit throughout the game but fell just short in the end, 3-2, against the Tanners.

Ayden Balter got the start on the mound for Wilmington and he pitched great after a shaky first inning that saw him give up the three Woburn runs.

Balter settled down after that and ended up going 5.2 innings, giving up just five hits while striking out 10.

Lukas Poirier came on in the sixth inning with two outs after Balter reached his pitch limit. He got the one batter he faced to fly out to center, as Woburn had two runners left stranded at first and second.

It was a 3-1 game, entering the bottom of the sixth, when Cameron Kelley led off with an infield single. He moved to second on a passed ball. Balter then came through with a single to left and Kelley scored from second to make it 3-2, with still nobody out.

Tanner reliever Luke Yorba buckled down, however, and retired Mick Keogen on a line drive to short before striking out the last two batters.

"We were very proud of the Wildcats as they hung in there against the defending District (13) champs," said Wilmington manager, Jay Kelley. "Balter pitched great and kept the team in the game until the end."

The offense was led by Kelley and Keogan, each of whom had two-hit games. Kelley scored both Wildcat runs, and Keogan had the first run batted in.

Woburn took the initial lead in the top of the first on an RBI-single by Jack Lee and a two-out, two-run single by Dillon Doble.

Balter was outstanding after that, retiring all but one batter (who reached on an error) heading into the sixth.

Matt Toland pitched a strong game for the Tanners, keeping the Wildcats quiet through three innings on just one hit, a single by Keogen, leading off the second.

tom of the fourth, beginning the inning with a Kelley double off the left field fence. With one out, Keogen drove in Kelley with a double to right to make it a 3-1 game.

Wilmington still had a runner in scoring position with only one out, but Toland came back to get the next two batters to retire the side.

"The players fought right to the end by scoring in the sixth and almost pulling off a big comeback," said Kelley. "We'll be right back at it against Stoneham on Monday Night."

Also competing for Wilmington were Trevor Sullivan, William Trach, Joe Gronemeyer, Ryan Quamme, Gavin Russell, Zach Mackiel, Lucas Gabardi, Brendan Walsh and Shane Maguire.

In addition to the Spartans, the Wildcats faced Wakefield at Rotary Park on Tuesday. The action continues this Saturday (5 p.m.) against North Reading before the round-robin portion of the tournament concludes on Monday (5:45 p.m.) with a game against Reading. Both upcoming games are at Rotary Park.

Wilmington 11's defeated by Wakefield Americans came in the bottom of the fifth, making the final score look a little more one-sided than it was actually.

Wilmington opened its tourney with a game at Woburn's Weafer Park, Wednesday night. Erin McCarthy pitched a gem but the Wildcat bats were held to one hit in a 2-0 shutout win for the Tanners.

McCarthy went the distance, allowing six hits and one earned run, while striking out one batter.

It was a scoreless game through five innings, but Woburn began to really put the pressure on in the fifth, with McCarthy having to work out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam.

The Tanners broke through in the sixth with a couple runs on a Matt Hughes double, an Avery Powers single, and a Jack O'Brien triple. The single and triple came with two outs. Hughes scored on a ground ball to second for the first run.

Jonathan Stokes had a double with one out in the bottom of the sixth for Wilmington's lone hit of the game, but he was the only one to reach before the game came to a close.

"Erin pitched beautifully," said Belding, of McCarthy.

Of Wilmington's 11 hits in the tourney thus far, nine of them occurred in the 8-7 loss to Stoneham, Thursday night at McCarthy Field in Stoneham.

Ronan Uftring pitched a good game for the Wildcats, and Nolan Richards was 2-for-2 at the plate.

The Spartans took a 1-0 lead in the first, but Wilmington answered with three runs in the second and three in the third to take a 6-1 lead.

In the second inning, Uftring reached on an error and scored. Richards and Shane MacDonald each singled and scored, the latter scoring on a single by Noah Tidderman.

In the third, it was Logan Zimmer who reached on an error and scored. Richards and MacDonald had the same experience as the second inning, singling and eventually scoring.

Stoneham began to chip away at the deficit with two runs in the bottom of the fourth before scoring five in the bottom of the fifth to overtake the Wildcats, 8-6.

Ryan Gray singled with two outs in the sixth and eventually scored on a bases-loaded wild pitch before the Spartans got the third out to end the game.

"We are doing pretty good, just not enough to get over the hump," said Belding. "They are fighting, trying to put together solid at bats, but the pitching has been fantastic and the defense has been fantastic. That's what has been keeping us in the games the last couple of days."

"We don't have strikeout pitchers so we are not striking out 10 a game," said Wilmington assistant coach Jim Keck. "So that means you have to get the outs on the field, and when you're asking them to get 13 or 15 or 17 outs a game on the field, that's a lot to ask at this age."

When the Wildcats played Reading, Monday evening (after this week's early deadline), they were trying to avoid going 0-4 as well as keeping the Rockets from moving on to the semifinals.

The Wilmington Under 9 Blue and White Lacrosse team participated in a recent clinic, facing Framingham Blue, Marlboro/Hudson and Methuen, coming away with several team victories. (courtesy photo).

Two local athletes honored by Emmanuel College

Local students honored include Brandon Fitzpatrick and Rachel Prevost, both of Tewksbury. Fitzpatrick was a member of the boys' cross-country team and Prevost was a member of the women's soccer team.
